Dear Henry,

Knowing you has been one happy experience after another!
my senior year at Roosevelt wouldn't have been at all the same without you, because (whether you believe it or not) you made it as great as it's been (and that's pretty damn great!) I know you'll never forget the Square Deal, or Prelude, or Paula (Golden Girl) Wayne, or
"Uncle Miltie" (and Schrafft's), or "our friend J.K.", or Central Park, or Grand Central Station, or the Bastride, or Thomas Hardy term papers, or beautiful red and white dogs on Valentine's Day, or Graduation parties, met - please never forget me either, because I'd like to feel that my memory will linger with all those "happy times".

a toast (Daiquiris, of course) -
To many, many, many, more wonderful times for many more days to come!
It's like that now, much! - Love always,

DEDICATION

The 20th century has been rocked by two World Wars, shocked by Hitler's mass extermination of millions of innocent people, and jolted into acute awareness of the nuclear bomb threat. Now, to the ever-growing list of man's disillusioning acts towards his fellow man, we can add yet another inhumane deed—the murder of the three civil rights workers, Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman, and James Chaney.

As the "Long, Hot Summer" of 1964 began, it was obvious to everyone that the road to equality for the Negro would be a consistent uphill struggle. Yet we all hoped that anger and bigotry would not flare up and consume in such an irrevocable way.

Three youths, along with hundreds of others, had gone to work in Mississippi as part of the Civil Rights Movement. Two were white, one a Negro; all had the single goal of furthering the cause of the Negro. But what motivated them? What was the drive, the urgency, that beckoned them to such a tragic destiny?

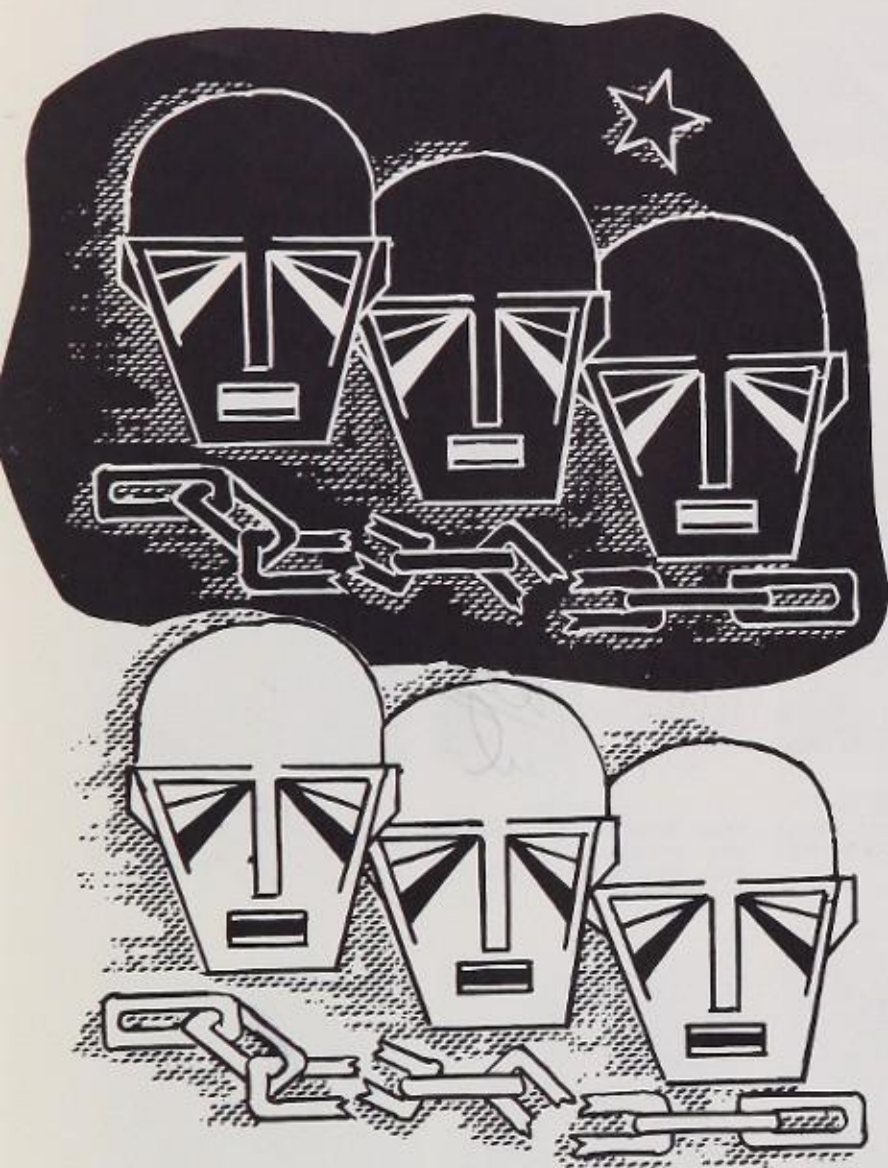

Perhaps one of the three had felt the restless call that centuries before had brought his ancestors to a new and unexplored land and was now calling him to the untrodden soil of equality. To another, life might have been a dark wall, casting only vague shadows. For him the Civil Rights Movement might well have been the faint beginning of daylight which would scatter the shadows and doubts. Yet another could have been infected with a true desire to lift the suppression which has for so long ruled the Negroes' way of life.

Whatever their separate motives may have been, these three boys—fiendishly killed, then buried in a common grave—now are eternally bound together in a common memory. One will never be remembered without the memory of the other two close at hand.

Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman, and James Chaney were Americans in every sense of the word. They died in an effort to make a reality of America's greatest ideal—that all men are created equal!

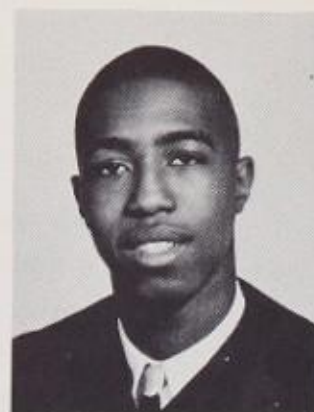

To this worthy ideal and to these young martyrs, we, the graduating class of 1965, dedicate this Senior Saga.

EDITORIAL

As we stand on the shore of adolescence, and look out over the sea of life, numerous experiences are recalled. We drift back to our younger days and think about the mischievous, innocent children we were, and how since then we have developed mentally as well as physically. Many factors are responsible for this noticeable development. Among the most prominent of these has been the impact of our high school years. A great transition occurred upon our entrance into high school, because it was at that time that we reached the major period of our maturity. During the past three or four years at Theodore Roosevelt, we have nurtured our minds with a wealth of information, a large portion of which we will soon forget. But more important than the academic knowledge we have acquired, we have gained much practical knowledge to help us understand our fellow man, and to make some of the involved problems life brings with it easier to solve.

The wonder of taking on life was the basis upon which was erected an individual. Our personality, character, mannerisms, and opinions grow firm and stable, as we move closer to maturity. Our high school years were largely responsible for the opinions and personality traits we now bear.

Upon graduation from high school, we face the future and decide how to use the information we have acquired. There is a world waiting to greet us, upon whose creation we had no influence, but whose continuance and further growth rests in our hands. It is we who make the decisions that may, and should prove monumental.

In future years, as we sail along the sea of life, rough though it may be, we will cast a momentary glance back at the shore of adolescence, and we will be able to review our development and see the reasons that motivated us to act as we did.

Our high school memories now become another chapter in our Book of Life. As we prepare to set sail, we, the graduating class of 1965, are proud to have been a vital part of Roosevelt's life, as Roosevelt has been a vital part of our lives.

IN DEEPEST GRATITUDE

The class of 1965 takes this opportunity to express its most sincere and appreciative thanks for the years we have so pleasantly spent in Roosevelt. Although we are now leaving, the spirit of Roosevelt will remain with us always. This page of recognition is dedicated to those who have made our days so fruitful. We are grateful to Miss Mary Clare Callan and the entire administration for the manner in which they have conducted our school, which fosters the true meaning of education.

So many teachers have supervised the activities that were so meaningful to us this year. Their memories will linger for many days to come. The teachers are: Mr. Robert Pioselli, Senior Activities Advisor; Mr. Albert Bortnick, College Advisor; Mr. Lawrence Wolfe, Senior Saga Literary Advisor; Mrs. Gertrude Petersen, Senior Saga Art Advisor, Red Letter Day Art Advisor; Mr. Sanford Wolf, Red Letter Day Play Director.

We also wish to thank our activities sponsors: Mr. Sanford Wolf, T.R.O. Sponsor; Mr. John Peters, Square Deal; Miss Natalie Sheidlower, Prelude Literary Advisor; Miss Aureilia Varrone, Prelude Art Advisor, Junior Red Cross; Mr. Louis Lazarus, Business Manager Senior Saga and Square Deal; Mrs. Lillian Newman, Arista Society; Dr. George Kaplan, Honor School; Mrs. Rosalind Tiefer and Mr. George Bustin, Dawn Patrol, Glee Club, and Chorus; Mr. Arthur Chankin, Orchestra; Mr. Jack Cohen, Band; Mr. Arnold Moss, Statesman Society; Mr. Stephen Wepner, Late Squad; Mr. Morris Roseman, Programming Chairman; Mrs. Muriel Perkall,

CHAPTER ONE

As we walked through the halls of Roosevelt for the first time, many thoughts filled our minds. We realized that we would be spending the major part of our next four years here and we hoped we would like everything about the school and readily be accepted. We saw many strange faces, and searched the crowds for at least one familiar one. We felt lonely but soon understood that most of the other new students felt the same way. We became much more comfortable as the days turned to weeks and the weeks became months.

We were introduced to many clubs, among them; the Spanish Club, the Newman Club, and the Hebrew Culture Club. The boys were invited to join the Fencing Team, Rifle Team, and many others.

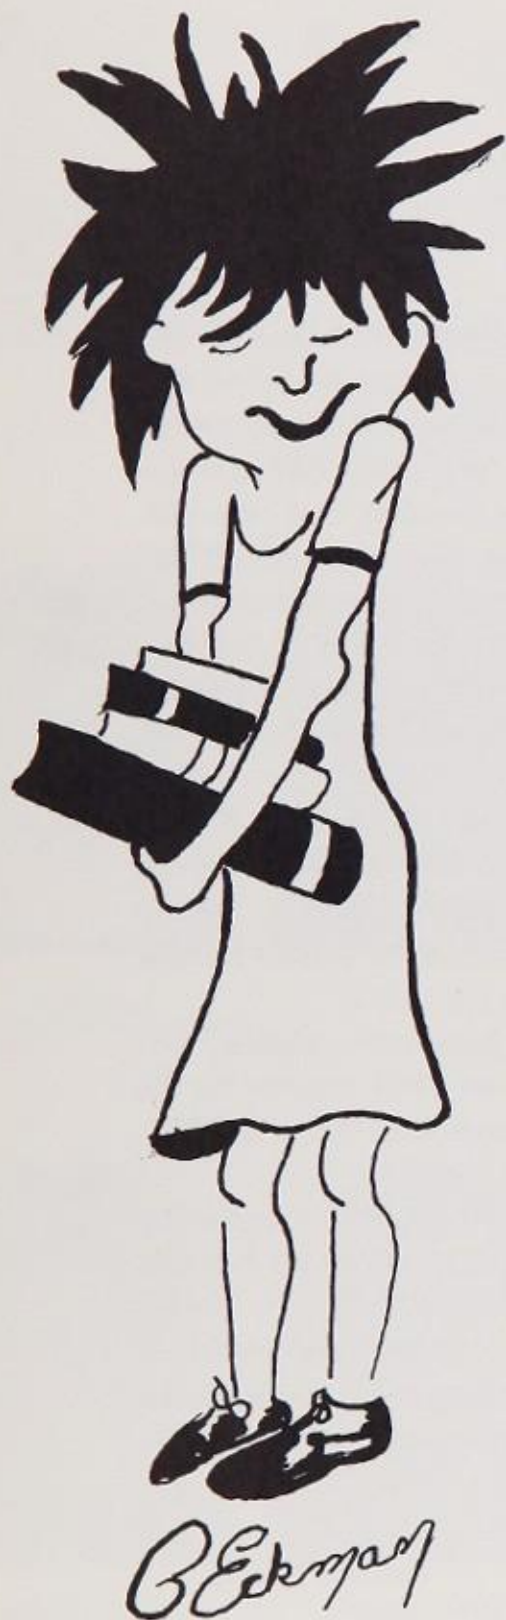

Time flew by and then the big day came. We got our first High School report card. For many of us the results determined how much allowance and how many dates we would have during the next few months. Typical reactions heard through the halls were, "It's impossible!" "I don't believe it!" "He failed me!"

This term brought another proud event into Roosevelt's history. Our principal, Miss Mary Clare Callan, was awarded the 1961 citation by the United Cerebral Palsy Association. The entire school took great pride in this honor.

It seemed that the former Pep Squad wasn't too peppy at basketball games, so they were given a boost and called boosters. Now, our boosters give a real boost to our team at basketball games.

Our first term at Roosevelt was coming to a close. It had been an eventful term which gave us an idea of what our life at Roosevelt would be like. We were all looking forward to inter-session, and then to our new classes. Inter-session was like a second Christmas vacation, because we lucky freshmen had no Regents to study for.

CHAPTER TWO

After a week of retirement and the joy of not having any Regents to worry about, we anxious freshmen returned to the most popular game among freshmen everywhere, "Merry-go-round-the-hallways." It seems that after a whole term at Roosevelt, finding rooms would be an easy task, but there were still a few exceptions. The tension of being in a new school had worn off by this time and we were able to look forward to the many events the spring term would bring.

Roosevelt is very well-organized and the students who are active in different groups keep the other students well informed of the school's activities. This was made apparent to us the first time we read the school newspaper, The Square Deal. It may not rival the New York Times, but it was considered good enough for a first place rating at the 38th Annual Columbia Press Association Convention. We have the enjoyment of reading it once a month.

The first weeks of the spring term passed quickly. Winter was ending and the first signs of the new season were showing themselves. During our Easter rest, we started to study for mid-term exams, which were to follow soon after our return to school. Also about this time, news of the coming Boatride was being publicized around the school. We had heard so much about this annual event and we were all looking forward to it.

On the morning of the event, we awoke full of excitement. The trip to the boat was strange and confusing, but we arrived in plenty of time. Upon boarding the boat, we met our friends and formed laughing, talking, happy groups. Arriving at Playland, we dispersed in all directions and spent a few hours taking advantage of all of the rides, occasionally stopping for a soda, or a hot dog, or candy, or ice cream, or pop corn, or cotton candy, or something else.

We returned to the boat thoroughly exhausted but contented. The ride home was quiet and relaxing. We looked forward to such days in the future, filled with equal amounts of fun and excitement.

The next social event we awaited was the annual Spring Concert given by our music department. Once again the performers outdid themselves. About this time, the thought of final exams became eminent and we began some serious studying. These exams were necessary evils and we met them in the best way we could.

Great expectations filled us on the last day of school. We received our report cards and then thought about summer vacation. We had grown to love Roosevelt in the short time we'd been here, and were proud to call it our school. Coming into Roosevelt was like getting up in the morning and and going through a busy and exciting day, and the end of the year was like going back to sleep again. In our dreams we prepared ourselves for another day, and the beginning of another year.

CHAPTER THREE

Sleep seemed like the only way to forget. But not even sleep could calm the tension that had been building up inside. Thoughts of what the following day would bring were vivid in our minds. For all of us who passed through the doors of Roosevelt for the first time, there was a strange feeling of bewilderment and excitement. None of us knew exactly what to expect, but we all wanted to meet others who felt the same way.

Our third term at Roosevelt was the scene of many events. Our little adopted boy, Jai-Sun Kim, whom we got through the Save the Children Federation, wrote to us from his home in Seoul, Korea. New faces appeared at home, too. Mr. Arnold Moss, Mrs. Katherine Helfer, Miss Martha Scriven, and Mrs. Karen Kornhauser joined the Roosevelt faculty. Mr. Jacob Cohen was promoted to the well-deserved position of Chairman of the Mathematics Department.

We witnessed the debut of the Leaders Training Club. Barbara Spencer became a Junior Olympics winner when she outran her competition in the forty yard dash. She is among our many athletically inclined students.

As the term progressed we were made aware of the many social activities that were offered. That year, the Halloween Hop proved to be a huge success. Many of our students showed great enthusiasm towards school events and clubs, and this encouraged shy sophomores to become an active part of Roosevelt.

It was at this time that the Square Deal interviewed some well-known celebrities. Eddie Fisher was interrogated backstage after a performance at the Wintergarden, and Robert Reed was the other performer who was questioned by our roving reporters.

Our first real introduction to the talent our school possesses was at the annual Christmas Assembly. We were very impressed at hearing the different vocal groups and the instrumental accompaniments. The members of the Drama Club performed in a very humorous skit about many of the teachers and supervisors with whom we had become acquainted. From this show, we were aware of the many activities we could take part in during our days at Roosevelt.

We all eagerly awaited the beginning of Christmas vacation. It gave us a chance to rest after completing mid-term exams. We sophomores were comforted when we realized what a wonderful school Roosevelt is and how much we would enjoy our stay.

CHAPTER FOUR

Well, there we were, fourth termers, after a week's between-term vacation. For a majority of us, it was quite an experience to get a whole set of new teachers after only one term. But new teachers weren't all we had in store for us that term.

To start the semester off on a note of "togetherness", the Human Relations Club, under the skillful direction of Mr. Leo Lieberman, sponsored our first International Buffet Dinner during Brotherhood Week. In the spirit of brotherhood, parents, teachers, and students sampled the foods of many nations.

Another new experience at Roosevelt was a Valentine's Day Dance, at which time everyone enjoyed the good music and the decorations in the gym. Here we were to meet the future members of our clubs, teams, honor societies, T.R.O. Council, and the scholarship and celebrity winners of our senior class. But more important, we were to gain friendships that would last us through our remaining years at Roosevelt and possibly longer.

In March, we attended a Talent Show sponsored by Miss Elkin and the T.R.O., which was a grand success. Through the efforts of Mr. Sanford Wolf, as emcee and auditioner, the shy boy from across the luncheon table became a lively and talented singer, and the tomboy from study hall turned into an agile and graceful ballerina.

We witnessed the birth of a new literary magazine which was christened Prelude, and was under the creative guidance of Miss Natalie Sheidlower. When published, it was acclaimed highly by its readers. Our Square Deal once again won first prize at the Columbia Press Convention.

Everyone waited impatiently for the day which was soon to arrive. On May 15, 1963, we boarded the City of Keansburg, the boat which was to take us to Rye Beach. A marvelous time was had on the boat and at Playland, and we began thinking about next year's trip.

The fourth term would soon be over, but before summer vacation, we had to wrestle with Regents exams. These completed, we looked forward to summer, and faced the oncoming terms with bright hopes and fond memories.

CHAPTER FIVE

The unfamiliarity of being sophomores had worn off by this time, for those of us who had entered the school as third termers. We felt more in the swing of things and were looking forward to a year of many exciting experiences. All juniors wanted to try their luck at the PSAT exams to be given shortly. We knew that although these College Board Exams were only practice, in a year's time we would be taking the real thing, so we tried to achieve the highest scores possible.

This term brought with it many new assets to our fine faculty. Among the newly appointed teachers were Mr. Eisenberg, Mrs. Moscato, Miss Lipnack, Mrs. Wepner, Miss Ratner, Miss Sloves, and others. Mr. Leo Lieberman left our staff and assumed the responsible job of Assistant Principal at P.S. 22, Bronx. Also, for a short time, Peace Corps members gained much experience by teaching and observing classes. Their sojourn at Roosevelt was to serve as basic training for their future assignments as teachers in remote corners of the world.

Much praise was given to our own Darvels whom we heard at various school functions. Their first record, "I Lost My Baby," was really great, and we all predicted a successful career for them.

As autumn wore on, and the holiday season approached, one bitter November afternoon cast its dark shadow over the land. The stinging recollection of President Kennedy's assassination was imprinted firmly on our minds and spirits. The Thanksgiving season of that year was a saddened one, and we all gave thanks for having lived under his short, yet meaningful administration.

Snow started covering our city and all the bright signs of the Christmas season soon filled shop windows. Between shopping uptown and downtown, we spent some time at home studying for mid-terms, which were soon to be upon us. With these tests completed, we watched a thoroughly enjoyable Christmas assembly, and at the end of the day, we wished our friends a "Happy Holiday," and rested for the next ten days.

Things started buzzing, however, in the English department, especially around room 302, as Miss Natalie Sheidlower and her staff began preliminary work on the second publication of Prelude. They busily worked on Thursday afternoons to complete the magazine on time.

Before we knew it, we had another vacation coming. With the completion of finals, we looked forward to inter-session and thought about new classes, new teachers, and new problems we would soon be facing.

CHAPTER SIX

One of the greatest terms we had at Roosevelt was our sixth term, because we made it that way. There were many exciting events that characterized this term, and helped to make it as great as it was.

We will always remember the gaily postered cafeteria and the vibrant campaign speeches of the political season, its outcome being the election of Joey Rosenblatt as our T.R.O. President.

On the sports scene, the Foilers, our fencing team, won the Bronx Championship, and our "Rough Riders" went far in displaying their athletic abilities.

The Fashion Show, whose purpose was to raise scholarship funds, was another outstanding event of our sixth term. We were serenaded by Roosevelt's own Beatles, better known as the Darvels and were entertained by our own girls modeling the newest spring fashions. We also watched some magnificent African dancing and listened to the Chorus and Dance Band.

Quite a few of us "sixers" had the privilege of becoming Honor School or Arista members, its new leaders being Fran Blattstein and Allan Blitz.

The Music Department presented its annual Musicana in June and a countless number of musical programs in the auditorium throughout the year.

The Bicycle Club took a cycling trip to the World's Fair. It was also during this time that the Biology Club sprang from the scientifically minded students, under the direction of Mrs. Karen Kornhauser, and became officially known as Chapter 2236.

Prelude piloted by Miss Natalie Sheidlower and the Square Deal mentored by Mr. John Peters, both won second place at the Columbia Press Convention due to the efforts of their capable staffs.

Then it was time again for the Boatripe to Playland. We will always remember leaving the harbor, being with our friends, dancing, joking, the rides, and the laughter. On the ride back, contentment was evident on all our faces.

These were only a few incidents that made the sixth term what it was to us. As it drew to a close, we thought about teachers, friends, and the apprehension of our senior year.

CHAPTER SEVEN

From the moment of our arrival at the gates of Roosevelt, we, the present seniors looked forward to and patiently awaited our seventh term. This marked a stepping stone in our lives, for being a high school senior is an experience never to be forgotten.

Our particular senior year began on September 14, 1964. At this time, many of us had overcome the tedious part of our high school careers and were looking forward to the brighter side of things.

Among the activities which are prominent in our minds was the annual Red Letter Day celebration in which a good number of seniors participated. One of the highlights of the program was a speech given by the elected senior president, Lillian Velez, and the vice-president, Lillithe Meyers. The senior play entitled Politics: Roosevelt Style was a smashing sensation and the skit presented by the celebrities was just great. Thank yous were in order for the teachers as well as the students who made this day one of complete fun and excitement.

Still, we took pride in the more serious aspects of our seventh term. The induction ceremonies of Arista, and the election of the Honor School Council were attended with great earnestness. By far, the most important part of the fall term was that occupied by the Regents Scholarship and College Board exams. These tests became the deciding factors in the future of most of the seniors, and had to be considered with much seriousness.

The inauguration of numerous clubs spread like fire throughout the school during our senior year. Among them were the Future Teachers' Club, and the Gardening Club. The long established clubs continued to serve the students as they had in the past. This term also saw a new Square Deal staff, its Editor-in-Chief being Henry Fasciani. The entire staff worked for a better newspaper and hoped to achieve it.

An outstanding event of this term took place at one of our assemblies when we were honored by the presence of Mr. Jonathan Bingham, a candidate for the 23rd Congressional District, and Dr. Leon Nadrowsky, chairman of the Physicians' Committee for Goldwater. They were two interesting and informative men. Outside the walls of Roosevelt, a hard fought campaign was taking place, as Mr. Lyndon Johnson and Senator Barry Goldwater contested for the 1964 presidential election. Lyndon Johnson became the 35th president of the United States.

Yet, there is something deeper than just these events that brings special meaning to the word "senior." The dictionary definition reads, "more advanced in dignity, rank, or office," and perhaps that is the answer. We have achieved a sense of belonging and a feeling of possessing qualities developed with the help of a devoted faculty. We have also learned the importance of the intimate friends we have acquired during our stay at Roosevelt.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Winter snows turned to spring rains, and spring rains turned to summer's warmth. Days seemed to leave almost before they arrived. Time moved ever so quickly, carrying with it memories of our past three or four years at Theodore Roosevelt. Many events have occurred and many good times have been had by all. The dances, the trips, the performances of Roosevelt's students at talent and fashion shows, and many other occasions are now things of the past, never to be forgotten. Other "unforgetables" include—failing tests, struggling through Regents, our beautiful cafeteria, and, "May I have your attention please? Please listen to me, this is Mr. Saltman speaking." They all went to make up a very enjoyable stay at Roosevelt.

One of the events characterizing our senior year was Red Letter Day last November. This was one event all seniors looked forward to with great anticipation because it was the one day set aside to boast "seniorship." The winter months brought a skating party which was attended by many of us and proved to be an exciting evening for everyone. Our annual Spring Concert was proof of the many hours of rehearsing that all band, orchestra, glee club and chorus members had gone through to make their last public appearance in Roosevelt a successful one. The applause they received showed that they had reached their goal.

June brought many thrilling events the first of which was our annual boatride to Playland. This is the highlight of any year at Roosevelt, but this year it meant just a little more to the seniors. Since it was our last, we made it our best. Characteristics were a watermelon on the boat, scattered guitars, screams heard from the roller coaster, cotton candy, loads of fun, and more of the same. On the way home, each of us felt sad, knowing we would not be here next year to enjoy the excitement of this wonderful day. We will never forget the feelings of happiness and nostalgia we experienced on this day.

School days flew by and plans for other senior activities were fast in the making. Our Senior Advisor, Mr. Robert Pioselli, outdid himself again by seeing that our activities were properly scheduled and carried out smoothly.

The Senior Prom was an evening of sparkling color, fun and thrilling excitement for those who attended. It was held on Friday evening, June 4, in the Georgian Room of the Americana Hotel. It now takes its place as a page in our book of memories.

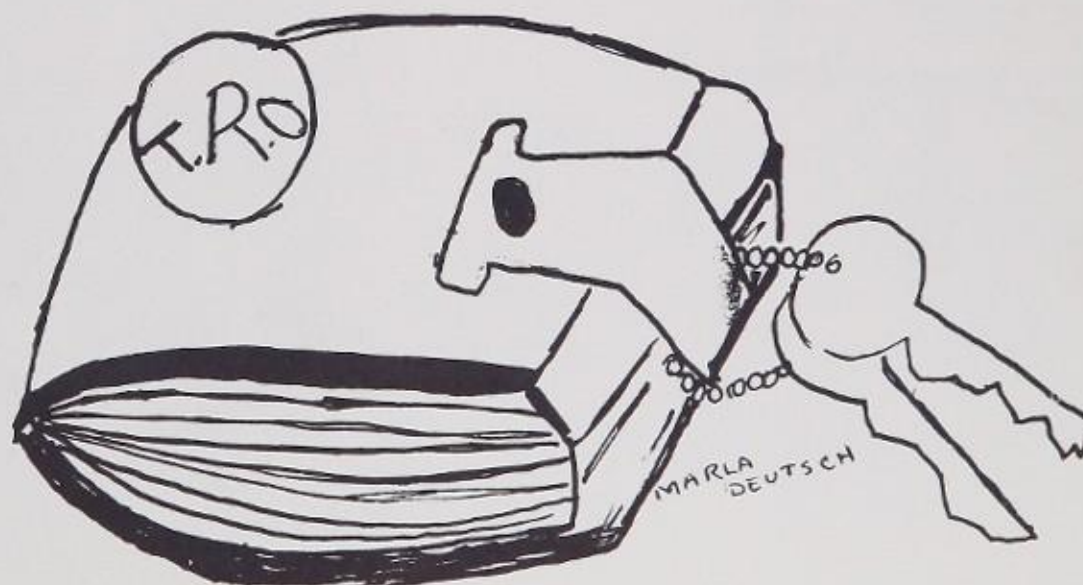

Our senior trip was the next big event which added to the experience of our senior year. We spent an exhilarating day picnicking at Rockland Lake State Park. All of us enjoyed the sports, the food, the fun, and being with good friends.

The year was climaxed by the most meaningful event for any senior. This was Graduation Day, June 29. This ceremony has been our goal since we entered the doors of Roosevelt, and with a true feeling of accomplishment, we close the doors behind us. It was a beautiful day indeed. The ceremonies were held at the R K O Fordham, and, as we marched in, wearing caps and gowns of maroon, a feeling of pride filled each one of us. It was not pride only in our school, but also in ourselves. Let us hope we will never forget this wonderful school that so strongly influenced the most important part of our lives.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

WE, THE GRADUATING CLASS OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT HIGH SCHOOL OF 1965, BEING OF SOUND MIND AND BODY, DO HEREBY BEQUEATH THE FOLLOWING TO THE BELOVED FACULTY OF OUR GLORIOUS SCHOOL.

To Miss Callan—we leave our hearts.

To Mr. Saltman—we leave a quiet auditorium.

To Mrs. Schneider—we leave a good excuse for early excuses.

To Mr. Unger—we leave a harem.

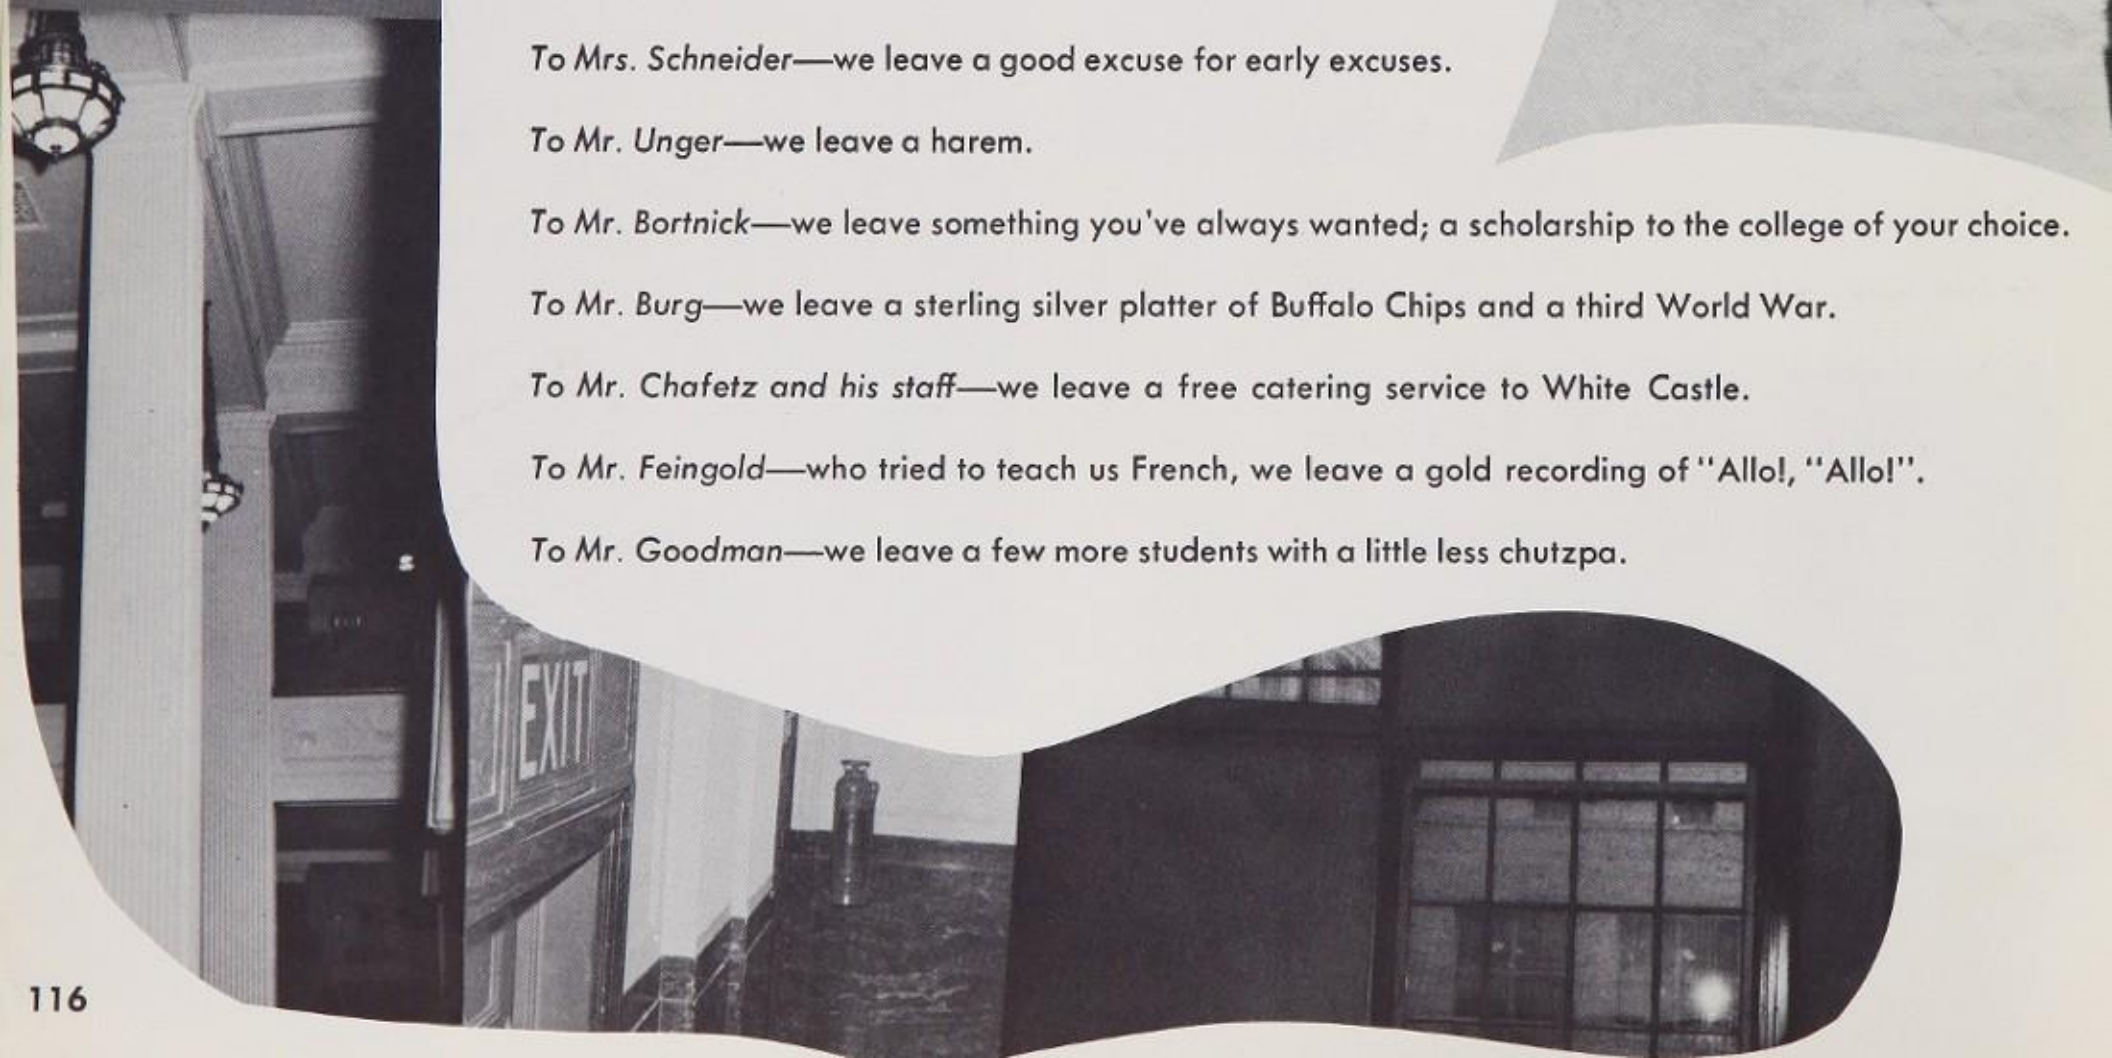

To Mr. Bortnick—we leave something you've always wanted; a scholarship to the college of your choice.

To Mr. Burg—we leave a sterling silver platter of Buffalo Chips and a third World War.

To Mr. Chafetz and his staff—we leave a free catering service to White Castle.

To Mr. Feingold—who tried to teach us French, we leave a gold recording of "Allo!, "Allo!".

To Mr. Goodman—we leave a few more students with a little less chutzpa.

To Mr. Heaney—we leave a lifetime pass to the Soupy Sales Show.

To Dr. Kaplan—we leave a year's supply of pink cards—(program cards, that is).

To Miss Launer—we leave a life of success and happiness.

To Mr. Lobenthal—we leave an opened umbrella to put in his new apartment on the 13th floor.

To Mr. Moss—we leave a new desk in 451, a student like Henry Clay, and a pair of gold skis.

To Mr. Newman—we leave a new set of old jokes and a 104th element.

To Mrs. O'Brien and her staff—we leave a freshly starched and ironed gym suit.

To Mr. Orzak—we leave a file cabinet for all his stocks and a bottle of Man Tan.

To Mr. Peters—we leave no late copy and a very Square Deal.

To Mr. Pioselli—we leave a senior affair.

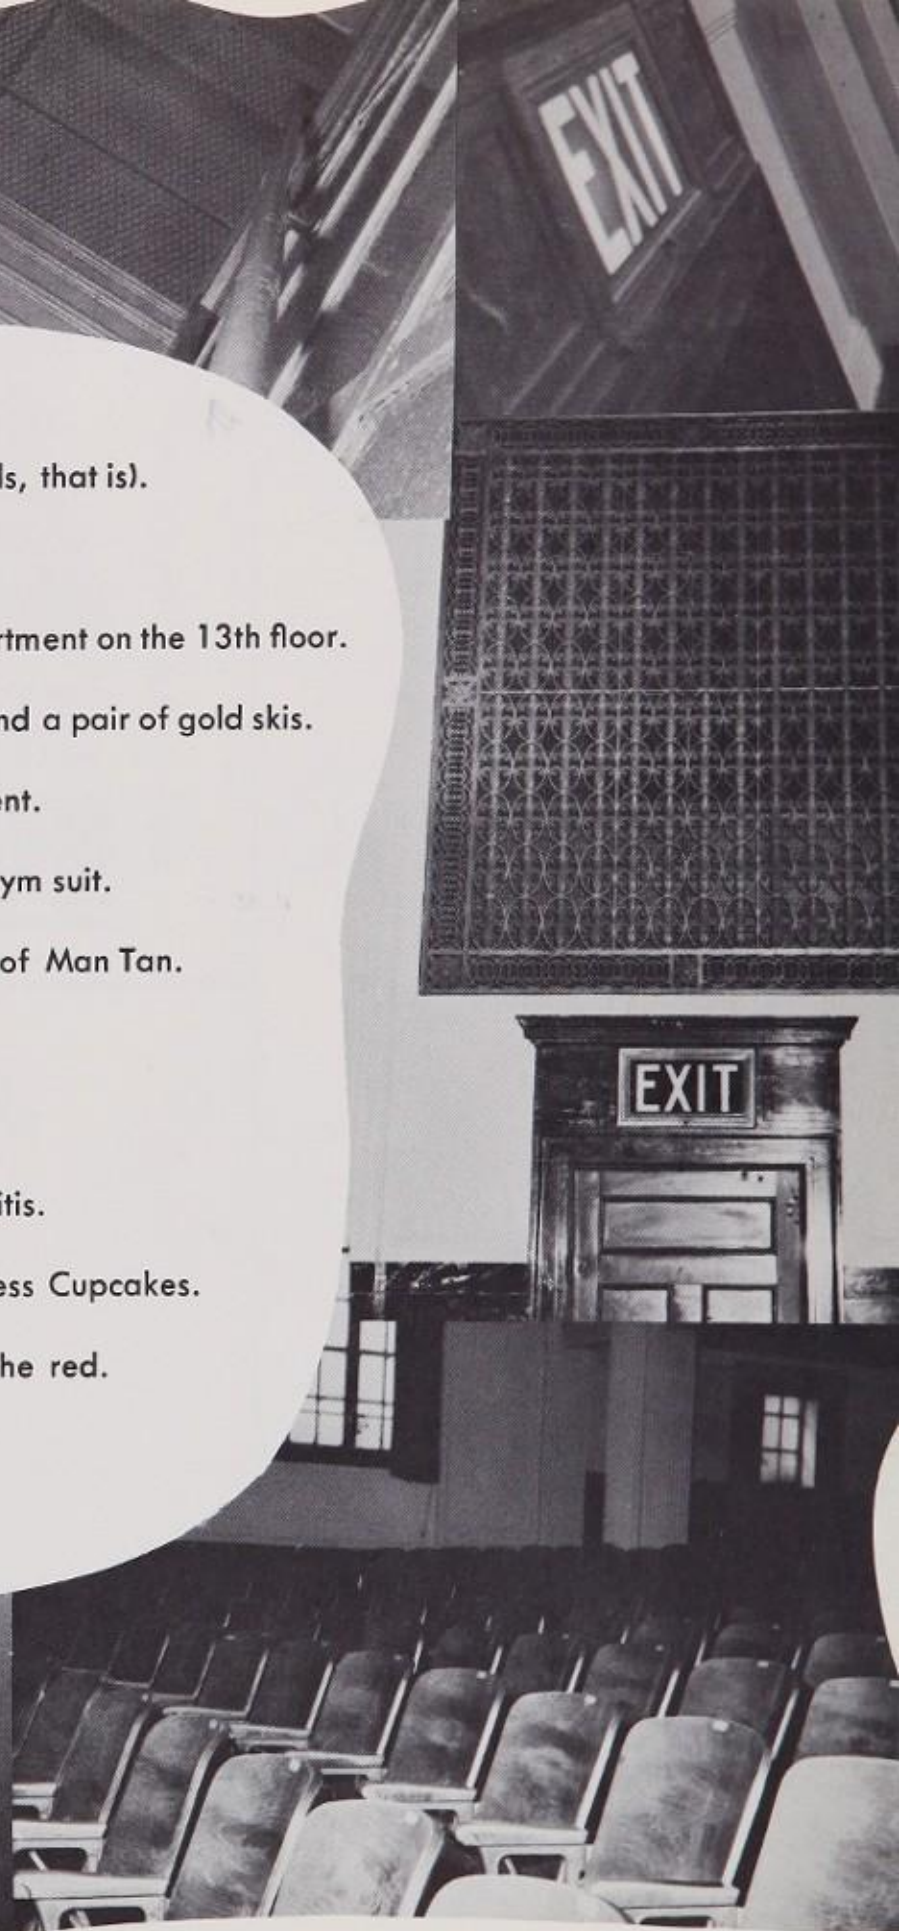

To Mrs. Saks—we leave a 12th year class with the worst case of Senioritis.

To Miss Sheidlower—we leave a Rosetta Stone and a package of Hostess Cupcakes.

To Mr. S. Wolf—we leave a balance sheet to bring the T.R.O. out of the red.

To Mrs. Weinstein—we leave a hundred words a minute.
